I.—TERMS OF ADMISSION.

1. The regular examination for admission to College, is held on the day preceding the commencement of the fall term. Students, however, may be examined at any time, except during vacations.

2. Students from other Colleges must present a certificate of honorable dismissal from the same. If the course of studies pursued by them be of the same grade as that pursued in this College, and if they have maintained a fair standing in the College from which they come, they will be admitted to the corresponding standing in this, without an Examination.

3. Every student shall pay his tuition at the time of his admission, and at the beginning of each subsequent session, during his connection with the Institution. If he fail to pay his tuition at the time specified, he shall be suspended from recitations and all other College privileges; but he shall be subject to such laws as the Faculty may make binding upon him, during such suspension, and shall be required diligently to prosecute the studies of his class.

4. On his admission, every student shall be furnished with a printed copy of these laws, and subscribe his name to the following obligation: "I acknowledge that I am a member of Georgetown College, and promise obedience to all the laws of its Faculty and Trustees."

5. Any student may receive an honorable dismissal at any period of his course, provided he is in good standing; and if a minor, has the sanction of his parent or guardian.

1. REGULAR STUDENTS.

1. The regular Students of College are arranged into four classes, called Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior; and no person shall be examined for admission into either of these, without producing satisfactory testimonials of good moral character.

2. Candidates for admission to the Freshman class, are required to be well acquainted with the English, Latin and Greek Grammars, Geography and Arithmetic, together with the first three books of Cæsar, the first six books of Virgil's Æneid, and Jacob's Greek Reader as far as "Geography;" or their equivalents.

3. Every Student, admitted to an advanced standing, must be well versed in the studies which have been pursued by the class which he proposes to enter.*

2. ENGLISH COURSE.

1. Students of the English or Scientific course, are required to possess a good knowledge of English Grammar, Arithmetic and Geography, and to write correctly.

2. They will pursue their studies, as far as practicable, with the regular students.

3. On completing the prescribed course, they shall be entitled to the English Diploma, certified under the College seal, and bestowed at commencement, in the usual mode.

3. STUDENTS IN PARTICULAR BRANCHES.

1. The College is open to persons who desire to study in particular departments only.

2. Such persons must give satisfactory evidence of good moral character, and possess such previous acquisitions in the branches they mean to pursue, as shall qualify them to study with some of the regular classes.

3. They shall engage in such a number of studies, as may, in the judgment of the Faculty, reasonably occupy their whole time.

4. If any such student remain at the Institution until he has completed a full course in any branch of study, he shall be entitled to a certificate of his attainments, signed by the Professor of that Department, and countersigned by the President.

II.—THE FACULTY.

1. The President, Professors and Tutors, have the immediate care and government of the Students, and are denominated "the Faculty."

* Students imperfectly prepared for the classes they enter, are generally embarrassed in all their subsequent course. An accurate knowledge of the preparatory studies, ensures admission, and better enables a Student to improve the advantages of the Institution, than a partial acquaintance with the higher branches of literature.

2. The Faculty have cognizance of all offences committed by the Students; and shall enforce the observance of all the laws of College, for the promotion of order, virtue, piety, and good scholarship, in the Institution.

3. No member of the Faculty shall engage in any pursuit or occupation, which interferes with the stated and punctual discharge of his official duties.

4. No member of the Faculty shall, in the presence of a Student, object to the propriety of any law of College, or act of the Faculty, or of any member thereof, or debate any question connected with the government or discipline of the College.

5. No vote given, nor opinion expressed, in Faculty meetings, shall be communicated to any Student or Students, except by a vote of that body, the President concurring.

6. Each Instructor shall have charge of his recitation room, and ascertain if possible by whom any damage is done. He shall point out to the Inspector of the College property what repairs are necessary, and furnish him a return three weeks before the close of each session, showing what items of damage have been done by known Students.

8. Every member of the Faculty shall use his utmost exertions to carry into full effect all the laws of College.

9. An exemplary regard to moral obligations is indispensably required of every officer of College.

10. At the beginning of each session, and as much oftener as the President may appoint, there shall be a meeting of the Faculty, at which each officer shall be assigned his part of the course of instruction; provided that the professors shall always have the branch of science which they severally profess, included in the parts assigned them. The frequency with which each class shall meet, is to be decided at these meetings.

11. Every member of the Faculty shall have the right to enter the rooms and studies of the Students, at any time.

12. The Faculty shall keep a book of records, and enter therein a fair statement of their doings; which book shall be laid before the Trustees whenever they shall so order.

1. THE PRESIDENT.

1. The President shall have the general charge and superintendence of the interests and reputation of the College; and is required to promote the same at all times, and in all places, by every suitable exertion.

2. He shall take under his own care, such branches of instruction as the necessities of the Institution, and his own convenience, render necessary and proper; especially the evidences, nature, and duties of the Christian religion.

3. He shall see that prayers are made with the students daily, and shall keep books in which the name, age, date of admission, parent or guardian, residence, scholarship, and deportment, of each Student shall be entered: correspond with parents and pupils, as may be necessary: preside at meetings of the Faculty: and administer its decisions in cases of discipline.

4. At every annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, he shall present to them a report on the condition of the College.

5. It shall be his duty to report to the Executive Committee of Trustees, the deficiencies, incompetency, mal-administration, or un-officer-like conduct of any Instructor, when in his judgment the case requires it, either from the magnitude of a single act, or the frequent occurrence of small delinquencies.

6. He has the right to be present at the recitation of any class, and to conduct the recitation if he choose.

7. He shall preside at Exhibitions, and Commencements, and confer all degrees.

2. THE PROFESSORS AND TUTORS.

1. The Professors and Tutors shall have charge of the studies of their respective departments, and shall faithfully instruct the Students in such branches as are assigned to them.

2. In the absence of the President, his authority shall devolve on the Senior Professor, according to the date of his appointment, unless the Trustees otherwise direct.

3. The Professors shall severally be responsible for the apparatus, specimens, &c., belonging to their respective departments.

4. Every Instructor shall accurately and impartially note the attendance and proficiency of every student under his care, and at the close of the week, shall present to the President a tabular view of the same.

5. The Professors shall take rank by seniority, according to the date of their appointment.

1. THE PRESIDENT.

1. The President shall have the general charge and administration of the interests and reputation of the College; and is required to promote the same in all times, and in all places, by every suitable exertion.

2. He shall take under his own care, such branches of instruction as the necessities of the Institution, and his own convenience, require; and he shall properly and especially the religious, moral, and physical education of the Christian religion.

3. He shall see that all students are united with the students daily, and shall keep books in which the names, age, date of admission, residence, religious, moral, and physical education, and other particulars shall be entered; and he shall be required to report to the Trustees whenever they shall so order.

Students may take with this course, either the Latin or Greek languages, without additional charge.

In addition to recitations in the various branches enumerated above, the classes attend to lectures and experiments on various portions of the course, and exercises in Oratory, both private and public.

Compositions or translations required from every student, once a month throughout the course.

Declamations by every student, once a month.

The object of the whole system of instruction is not to carry a few branches of study to a great extent, nor on the contrary, to give a superficial knowledge of almost everything, but to commence a thorough and liberal course, and prosecute it as far as the time allows. It is hoped thus to foster a general symmetry of character, and bring all the mental powers into due exercise. It is not intended to qualify young men for and particular pursuit in life, but so to develope and instruct their minds, as to prepare them for the study of any profession.

IV.—HOURS OF STUDY.

1. The hours of study shall be established by the Faculty, from time to time, at their discretion, subject to the approval of the Trustees.

2. From the first of October to the first of April, study hours shall be from 9 to 12 o'clock in the forenoon, from 2 to 5 in the afternoon, and from 6 to 9 in the evening. During the remainder of the year, from 8 to 11 in the forenoon, from 2 to 5 in the afternoon, and from 7 to 9 in the evening.

3. During these hours, every student is required to apply himself with diligence to his prescribed duties and pursuits; and such of the time as is not devoted to recitations, he shall remain in his room.

4. Students shall not collect together in any recitation room before the appointed time, nor remain there after the exercises are closed, without permission.

V.—TERMS AND VACATIONS.

1. The College year is divided into two terms or sessions.

2. The first session begins on the third Monday in September, and closes on the last Friday in January. The second session begins on the following Monday, and closes at Commencement.

3. There shall be a recess of one week, beginning on the day before Christmas.

4. No Student shall leave town in term time, without permission from the President.

It is of great consequence that Students return to College in time to attend the first recitations or lectures of their class. An absence of a few days, when a new branch of study is begun, seldom fails to produce subsequent embarrassment, and sometimes the loss is not made up during the course.

VI.—DEVOTIONAL EXERCISES.

1. Every Student shall attend the daily devotional exercises in the College Chapel, at the hours appointed by the Faculty, and conduct with becoming gravity and reverence, during the whole service, and while going to, and returning from, the same.

2. All Students are required to attend, uniformly and punctually, public worship, on the Lord's day, in the Baptist church, in Georgetown, or in such other house of worship, as their parents or guardians may designate; and such evidence of punctual attendance shall be given, as the Faculty may require.

3. It is enjoined upon all the Students to "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy, and to avoid on that day every thing inconsistent with its religious observance."

4. There shall be kept a bill of attendance upon daily prayers, by monitors appointed for the purpose; and all absences reported weekly to the President.

VII.—COMMENCEMENT AND DEGREES.

1. The annual Commencement takes place on the last Thursday in June.

2. On the day before the Commencement, an oration will be delivered before the two literary societies, by some gentleman appointed by them for the purpose, and on the same day or evening such poems or prize essays will be read, as the Faculty may appoint.

3. On the day after the final examination of the Senior class, which shall be on the 5th Wednesday preceding Commencement, the President shall make known to them the decision of the Faculty, in relation to the parts to be performed by them at the ensuing Commencement. After the President has inspected and approved the written exercise of any member of the class, he may have leave of absence from Georgetown till the Friday next preceding Commencement; at which time he is required to return to College, and to attend to any rehearsal of his part, which the President shall direct.

4. Each speaker at Commencement, or any college exhibition, shall deliver a fair copy of his speech to the President, at least three weeks before the appointed time for delivering it.

5. If any Student neglect to rehearse, at the time and place appointed, or to perform his part on Commencement day, he shall be liable to the loss of his degree. If he pronounce in public what is not contained in the copy of his speech, or deliver any passage which he has been directed to omit, he shall not be suffered to proceed, and shall be liable to the same penalty.

6. No Student shall be entitled to the degree of BACHELOR OF ARTS unless he has completed the regular course of studies pursued at this College, or its full equivalent.

7. Every "Bachelor of Arts," three years after receiving the first degree, whether the degree was conferred by this or by any other College in good standing, shall be entitled, on application to the Faculty, to the degree of "Master of Arts," provided that his moral character and attainments be such as to merit the distinction.

8. No officer shall sign any Diploma, or other certificate for a Student, until all bills of such Student shall have been discharged in full, and the Treasurer's receipt shown to the President.

VIII.—EXAMINATIONS.

1. The Faculty shall examine all the classes twice a year, in the presence of a committee of examination, appointed by the Trustees, and such other persons as may choose to attend.

2. All Students are expected to attend the examinations in all their studies, and failing to do so without a satisfactory excuse shall be marked zero, and incur public reprimand.

3. The mark received by a Student at an examination, shall be reckoned as the average of one week.

4. Should any Student be found deficient, at the close of a session, he may be examined again, at the commencement of the next session; and his mark for such subsequent examination shall be entered on the Record Book; but shall not affect his previous standing. If found deficient, at this examination, he must re-commence with the next lower class.

IX.—EXHIBITIONS.

1. There shall be an exhibition of the Junior class at the close of the winter session, when such as have been selected by the Faculty, will be required to perform the parts assigned to them.

2. The number, character, and length of the orations, and all other matters relating to the exhibition, not herein specified, shall be under the control of the President.

X.—VOLUNTARY SOCIETIES.

1. Voluntary societies may be formed among the Students, for their mutual improvement, and the cultivation of manly intercourse; to which suitable apartments in the College building will be assigned as circumstances will permit, in the estimation of the Trustees.

2. No society or club, for these or any other purposes, shall be formed or continued, without the consent of the Faculty.

3. A fair copy of the constitution, and all the by-laws and regulations of every such society, shall be deposited with the President, and such alterations communicated to him as may be made, from time to time; and no article in such constitution or by-laws, shall be held to be valid, until approved by the Faculty.

4. Any member of the Faculty has the right to be present at the meetings of such society.

5. Every such society shall cause to be left with the President, the names of its President and Secretary, and their officers, within one week after their election; and when required, shall furnish a list of all the members.

6. The regular and voting members shall consist exclusively of Students in actual connection with the College. Other persons may be honorary members.

7. No exhibition of oratory, or other public exercise, shall be had by a society without the approbation of the Faculty; and in case the speakers are members of College, the speech shall be submitted to the inspection of the President at least three weeks before the appointed day, who shall order such parts to be omitted as may seem to him unsuitable.

8. No repairs or alterations shall be made in any room used by a society, without the special permission of the Inspector of the College property.

XI.—DEPORTMENT.

1. It is required of every Student, that he maintain an honorable and gentlemanly deportment at all times; and that he treat the officers of the College, his fellow Students, and all other persons, with respect.

2. All Students, except such as reside in Georgetown, are required to obtain the approbation of the Faculty in their choice of a boarding house, and no one will be permitted to change his place of boarding, without consulting the Faculty beforehand, and obtaining their permission.

3. No Student will be permitted to be absent from his room after nine o'clock at night, except in case of necessity.

4. Every student shall maintain a sacred respect for the property of all other persons. He shall not enter upon their grounds, nor do any injury to their possessions, on any pretext whatever, under pain of severe punishment, independently of his subjecting himself to the penalty of the laws of the country.

5. No Student shall enter the room of another Student, at any time, without his permission.

6. Every Student shall pay strict attention to cleanliness in his person, in his room, and in relation to every part of the College buildings and grounds.

7. All unnecessary noise and disturbance, in or about the College buildings, is strictly prohibited.

8. No Student shall smoke a pipe or cigar in or near any of the College buildings; nor shall any Student keep intoxicating liquors of any kind, except when prescribed by a physician for medicine, and permitted by the Faculty.

9. No Student shall attend any exhibition having an immoral tendency; nor frequent any house or shop, after being forbidden by the President; nor be guilty of any disorderly behavior, to the dishonor of the College, or the disturbance of any citizen.

10. All Students are required to walk in procession, formed by order of the Faculty, on days of Exhibition and Commencement.

11. No Student, except by special permission of the Faculty, shall attend the instruction of any person who may undertake to teach any language, art, or science, in Georgetown, during term time.

12. No Student shall associate with vicious company, play at cards, practice any species of gambling, or be guilty of contention, falsehood, intemperance, injustice, profanity, or any other species of immorality.

13. No Student shall carry about him any secret weapons; such as a dirk, pistol, or other deadly instrument. Nor shall any Student take part in a duel, either directly or indirectly, on pain of immediate expulsion.

14. Every Student shall personally appear before any member of the Faculty, whenever required so to do.

15. Any member of the Faculty shall have power, at all times, to order Students to their rooms; and it shall be the duty of every Student, in such case, to obey the order without delay.

16. Students, when required, shall give evidence in cases of violation of the laws of the College. Every refusal to do this, and every kind of persecution or manifestation of ill will from others, in consequence of a student's compliance with this requisition, shall be deemed a contempt of the Faculty, and shall be punished accordingly.

17. Students shall be uncovered while in the Chapel or any recitation room.

18. Every Student is required to make himself familiar with the laws of College, as ignorance of them will not be received as an excuse for transgression.

19. In cases of offences not enumerated, or for which no specific penalty is provided, the Faculty shall inflict such punishment as shall seem to them just and necessary.

XII.—SCALE OF MERIT.

1. In order to distinguish the degrees of merit, due to each Student, a regular scale of credits and charges shall be observed, by which the grade of scholarship and deportment will be exactly ascertained.

2. Credits will be allowed on all exercises and recitations. These shall vary in number, according to the correctness and excellence of the recitation or other exercise. Eight shall be the highest value of a recitation, or other exercise.

3. If a Student be absent from recitation without satisfactory excuse, he shall be marked zero.

4. A book containing an account of the exact standing of each Student for scholarship and deportment, shall be kept by the President; on application to whom, any Student may obtain his standing in his several studies, at the middle and the end of each session.

5. From this book a suitable abstract shall be made out and transmitted to the parent or guardian of each Student, at the close of each session; showing the degree of approbation or censure, the absences, proficiency, &c., with any other information which the President shall deem useful and expedient.

6. The standing of a Student as exhibited by the aggregate of his marks, for merit and delinquency, both in scholarship and deportment, shall decide the Faculty in the final distribution of College honors.

XIII.—PUNISHMENTS.

1. Punishment shall not be resorted to, except in flagrant cases, without the previous employment of friendly caution and advice.

2. Cases of minor offence, or delinquency, shall be punished by deductions from the number of merit marks.

3. Greater violations of duty shall be punished according to their degree, by private admonition, admonition before the class of the offender, admonition in presence of all the Students, probation or expulsion. Fines shall not be resorted to, except for damages to property. The repetition of an offence shall always be considered an aggravating circumstance.

10. Any Student having ten unexcused absences in one term, shall be reprimanded before the class; having fifteen, he shall be reprimanded in the Chapel; and having twenty, he shall be put upon probation.

5. When it shall appear to the Faculty, that the further continuance of a Student at the College is undesirable, while at the same time his offences are not of a gross character, the President shall, by letter, inform his parents or guardian, that they may, if they please, remove him without exposure.

6. Probation is the putting of a Student upon his good behavior for a specified time; during which, should he be guilty of any unexcused delinquency, or intentional violation of the College laws, he shall be expelled. Entire propriety and studiousness during the prescribed period, shall restore such Student to good standing.

7. Expulsion is a final separation from the College; and shall require a vote of three fourths of the Faculty, including the President.

8. If a Student speedily evince penitence for his faults, it shall lie in the power of the Faculty, on his confession, to pass over the offence without entering the case on their records.

XIV.—ENCOURAGEMENTS AND REWARDS.

1. For the encouragement of young men who give promise of future usefulness to their country, the Trustees will, at their discretion, remit tuition fees to such persons as may bring satisfactory testimonials of indigence, morality, and good talents.

2. Prizes may be established for the best dissertations by Students of the upper classes, as also for deportment, elocution, or other points of superiority, of which proper notice shall be given to the classes from time to time.

3. Persons desirous of instituting such prizes must have their plan approved by the Trustees, before a public announcement is made.—Dissertations presented for a prize, shall be accompanied by a sealed letter having the fictitious signature on the outside, and the real name within. These letters shall be burnt unopened, except those of successful candidates, whose names shall be placed on the records of the Trustees.

XV.—DAMAGE TO COLLEGE PROPERTY.

1. Damage done by any Student, to a room, or to any part of the College buildings, premises, trees, fences, &c., shall be repaired at the expense of the Student.

2. The frequent repetition of injuries shall subject a Student to a fine not exceeding threefold the damages actually done; or if he prove incorrigible on this subject, he shall be expelled.

3. When the perpetrator of any damage is not discovered, the cost of repair shall be assessed on all the Students alike, and be inserted on the term bill as "General Damages."

4. No damages shall be assessed on Students which result from necessary wear and decay of time, or by the act of Providence.

5. In cases of gross trespass against persons or property, or whenever in the estimation of the Faculty circumstances require it, the Faculty may institute the usual process before the established Courts of Law.

6. An inspector, appointed and paid for the purpose, shall examine all the College property at least once a month, and see that all damage is properly repaired, and waste prevented. He shall keep an account of all repairs made, and of the persons to whom the same are chargeable, so far as he can ascertain.

7. He shall make returns to the Treasurer at every stated meeting of the Board, and whenever else he may be requested, of the sums chargeable to individuals, or to the head of "General Damages."

XVI.—LIBRARY.

1. The Library, in term time, shall open at such times as the President may appoint.

2. The Library shall be under the immediate care of a committee of three persons, appointed by the Trustees, who shall superintend its concerns, direct what periodicals shall be ordered, and expend such sums as may be appropriated on this behalf.

3. The Librarian shall keep a fair and regular account of borrowers and books lent; and shall also preserve a complete catalogue of the books, and a record of all donations to the Library.

4. Each Student shall pay the Treasurer of the College one dollar per session for the use of the Library; half of which shall go to the Librarian, as a compensation for his services.

5. Each Student, while in the Library, shall remain uncovered, and conduct himself in an orderly and respectful manner. If he transgresses this rule, his name may be stricken from the list of Students who have access to the Library, or be reported to the Faculty, at the discretion of the Librarian.

6. No Student, without a written order from the President, shall be allowed to take from the Library, or have in his possession, at one time, more than two volumes.

7. No book, borrowed from the Library, except classics, may be kept longer than three weeks. A Student shall be fined by the Librarian, at the rate of ten cents per week for such detention; and shall take out no more books, till the fine be paid.

8. No maps or charts, or any books marked Retineatur, shall be aken from the Library by any person except one of the Faculty, without a written order from the President.

9. When a Student applies for a book then lent out, he may leave his name and the title of the book, and the date of the application, with the Librarian, and when the book shall be returned, such applicant shall be entitled to precedence, provided he apply for it at the time of its being returned.

10. No book shall be borrowed or returned without the knowledge of the Librarian, who shall take particular notice of the condition of every book.

11. No person shall lend to another, a book borrowed from the Library, nor suffer it to be removed from his personal custody, nor carry it out of town without special permission.

12. Any Student may borrow books, to be used during term time, as text-books, by paying to the Librarian two cents per week, for the use of each volume: provided, that, if any damage be done a book, more than would result from careful usage, the Student to whom it is loaned, shall be required to replace it by a new one, or pay to the Librarian double the cost thereof.

13. If any Student wishes particularly to read or consult a book, map, &c., marked Retineatur, the Librarian may, if he pleases, permit him to read or consult such book in the Library.

14. If any Student damage a book belonging to the Library, he shall be fined according to the discretion of the Librarian; and if he shall lose a book, he shall replace it by a new one, within three months, or pay to the Librarian double the amount of the price of the book; or, if belonging to a set, of the set to which it belongs; subject, however, to the opinion of the Faculty.

15. Every person having books from the Library, shall return them two weeks before vacation, and no Student shall be allowed to take books from the Library during the vacation, without permission from the President.

XVII.—RESIDENT GRADUATES.

1. Students who have honorably completed their course, may remain connected with College, and continue to receive instruction, direction and assistance in their further studies, from any officer of College who may be willing to undertake the same; for which they shall make said officer such compensation as may be agreed on between them.

2. They may attend the recitations of any regular class in College, and if they choose, may recite with the class, free of charge for tuition.

3. They shall enjoy the full use of the Library of the College, in the same manner as under graduates, by paying $2 per annum.

4. If any resident graduate conduct himself in a manner which the Faculty shall deem injurious to the College, after admonition from the President, he shall be so informed by a note, and thence forward cease to possess the privileges secured to him by these laws.

XVIII.—CLASS OR GENERAL MEETINGS.

1. No class, or general, or other meetings of Students, shall be called without permission being first asked of the President, in writing, by three Students, with the object specified, and their names attached.

2. When such a meeting is permitted, the public call for it must be signed by the said three Students.

3. The said three Students shall be held responsible for the decorum of the meeting, and that no unsuitable matter be brought forward, or discussed there.

4. No such meeting shall be continued by adjournment; but for every meeting permission must be obtained.

5. The chapel and recitation rooms shall never be used for any declamation, rehearsal, or public meeting, or any voluntary assembly of Students, without a special vote of the Faculty.

XIX.—EXPENSES.

1. College bills are made out and presented to the Students at the commencement of each session, and must be settled.

2. The annual charges are:

Instruction,	-	-	-	-	-	$ 40 00
Use of Library,	-	-	-	-	-	2 00
Servant's hire for public rooms,	-	-	-	-	-	1 00
Fuel for do.	-	-	-	-	-	1 00
General Damages,	-	-	-	-	-	1 00

3. The graduation fee is five dollars, including diploma. For such as receive in course, the degree of Master of Arts, the fee is the same. For honorary degrees no charge is made,

4. The charge for tuition will always extend to the end of the session, except the Student leave College on account of sickness.

5. Students admitted within six weeks after the commencement of a session, pay the entire tuition fee; if at a later period, in proportion to the time. The whole charge for library, public fuel, damages, &c., shall be paid for the session, without regard to the time of entering.

6. Until a Student is regularly dismissed, he shall be regarded, whether present or absent, as a member of College, and be required to pay the regular charges.

In regard to the allowances for apparel and pocket money, great caution is solicited on the part of the parent. Whatever is more than sufficient for ordinary purposes, exposes the student to numerous temptations, and does not contribute to his respectability or happiness.

As a precaution against extravagance, parents at a distance can deposit funds with some citizen; or member of the Faculty, who will attend to a Student's pecuniary concerns, correspond with the parents, and render semi-annual accounts, for which he will charge five per cent. commission.

The price of boarding, lodging, fuel, lights, and room rent, is from $80 to $120 per annum, exclusive of vacations. For this sum, Students are admitted into the best families in town. In the country around, within two miles, boarding may generally be had cheaper.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Connected with the College, in a separate edifice on the Campus, and under separate teachers, is a Classical School, designed and arranged expressly for preparing Students for the Freshman class.

No pupil is admitted into this Department without being able to read and write well, and having some knowledge of Grammar and Arithmetic.
